A QUESTION ABOUT
Brown's Iron Bitters
ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times: "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This proves conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory iron combination had ever been found.
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments Iron is prescribed daily. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the effect is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for baby. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it.

COLUMBIA COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Seventeenth Annual Convention met in the M. E. church at Catawissa, June 2nd and 3rd., Wednesday and Thursday of last week, with the President, Rev. U. Myers in the choir, and a representation of 108 delegates, together with pastors, superintendents and district vice presidents, numbering in all about 150. The address of welcome was given by Rev. A. M. Barnitz, pastor of the M. E. church. A cordial welcome was extended to all Sunday school workers. He compared the Sunday school to Archimedes lever which should raise the world to God. This work like all great works is a growth, and we are just in the beginning of it. We meet together to exchange views in order to devise means and ways of accomplishing better work; to arouse us from our lethargy and fill us with enthusiasm. In the absence of the vice president, Rev. W. T. Galloway, who was to respond to the address of welcome, Rev. W. H. Buck of Espy, pastor of the Evangelical church was called upon and echoed the sentiments of Rev. Barnitz, and with the wish that the convention may be beneficial to all and especially to the people of Catawissa, who have given the convention such a cordial reception.

Rev. E. S. Bridenbaugh, of the Reformed church, Bloomsburg, opened the subject of "Special Teachings"—Teachings on Apostles creed, commandments systematic giving. Giving is as essential as any other part of the work. Children should be so taught in their youth. They should be taught christian knowledge in order to eventually bring them into the church. The same teachings should be used as that of the church. Special teachings should be adapted to the different grades of scholars.

E. M. Tewksbury thought the children should not be taught that giving in Sunday school was the giving of alms, but the giving of necessity. That we must have means for carrying on the work, and some one must pay the bills. If children were so instructed there would be no drag in the work.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

After the devotional exercises and appointment of committees, the reports of township vice presidents was called. Of the twenty-five officers only nine were present to report. Two townships were reported as having held district conventions, but the vice presidents were absent. A number of townships were organized during the past year

On account of the sickness of the secretary, A. W. Spear, his report was read by J. H. Aikman, we give it as follows:

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF COLUMBIA CO. SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Year ending June 1886. Your Secretary began collecting statistics early last year, but at the time of our last meeting they were found to be so incomplete, that no statistical report was then presented.

This work was continued during the past year and your secretary now offers as complete a report, probably, as the present state of the Sunday school work in the county will afford.

No. of Sunday schools in Co.	129
No. of teachers and officers	1263
No. of scholars	8,633
Total S. S. membership	9,893

The per cent of Sunday school attendance in our county is larger than the average for the State, so it will be seen that we stand above many of the other counties in this respect.

There are few, if any localities in our county where new Sunday schools are needed, but the crying need is better Sunday schools.

There are many schools within our borders where the International lessons are not used and the old plan of reading from a Testament is followed, frequently without question or comment. A large number of schools are dormant from October to May and in fact there may be a very few that have not yet re-organized for the summer. A few cases have come to the notice of the Secretary in which Sunday schools are forbidden the use of the church building and are therefore obliged to use school houses instead.

It was hoped that at this annual convention it would be possible to report all the townships of the county organized, and to accomplish this end the Executive Committee, as will be seen by the minutes of meeting of Sept. 26. 1885, authorized the Secretary to proceed with the work of township organization and directed him to assist, when needed, in holding township conventions.

Eight townships and two boroughs have been organized since our last convention, viz., Berwick, Bloomsburg, Catawissa, Franklin, Greenwood, Jackson, Mifflin, Montour, Pine and Sugarloaf. Eleven townships were reported as organized at the last convention, thus making 21 townships and boroughs now organized and four, viz: Beaver, Roaringcreek, Conyngham and Centralia remain unorganized.

The number of township conventions held since the last county convention is as follows:

Centre 2, Benton 2, Berwick 3, Locust 1, Briarcreek 3, Greenwood 2, Fishingcreek 3, Main 3, Franklin 1, Madison 1, Pine 1, Mifflin 1, Sugarloaf 1, Jackson 2, Scott 1, Catawissa 1, Orange 1, Bloom 1, Hemlock 1, Montour 1.

Your Secretary attended 20 of these mettings and in this work of township organization traveled 445 miles, all except 8 miles of this with his own conveyance.

And now the question will naturally arise "what are the prospects for organizing the four remaining townships?"

Certain local circumstances operated against an organization being affected in Roaringcreek the past year but your Secretary is persuaded that with proper care and exertion a good and profitable convention may be held ere long.

Next in regard to Beaver—A time and place were fixed for a convention here last fall. The morning of the day set forth for the meeting was rainy but it cleared in time to make it quite reasonable to expect an afternoon meeting, Revs. Spear and Buck and your Secretary went to the place appointed in time to hold an afternoon session but no one was there and it was learned upon inquiry that no one had been there. An organization might, with a good deal of work, be effected but it would probably require continued efforts to keep it alive.

It is a fact known to the convention that churches in laying out districts sometimes follow natural boundaries rather than state and county lines. A suggestion has been made by Rev. Deavors and heartily approved by your Secretary, that in consideration of the fact that Centralia is so near to Ashland and the interests of the two places being identical, that we open communication with our State Association and with the Schuylkill county Association with a view to transfer Centralia and Conyngham from our county to Schuylkill county.

And now to sum up—A majority of the townships that are organized need no help from the county and are evidently doing a good work, but the others need help and encouragement and a few of them will probably not hold another convention without it.

An address was given by Rev. A. Houtz, of Orangeville on the subject of "The International lesson system a means of uniting protestants." It brought all people together at the same time—learning and instructing on the same subject—make them all have a common idea—a definite purpose. In discussing this subject a number of the members expressed an opinion that the committee in preparing the lessons seemed to loose sight of the church festivities at the proper times. Thus we might be learning about the birth of Christ in July or his crucifixion in mid-winter.

A paper was read by Miss Hattie R. Bidleman, of Bloomsburg on the Subject of "Origin of the International lesson system," we give it as follows:

The adoption of the Uniform Lesson System by the Sunday Schools of this country in 1872, will mark a distinct epoch in Church history. This may seem to some, to be an extravagant statement, but perhaps by noticing some of the results of its adoption, it may not be considered as such. The movement was opportune. It came as something that had been waited (for) and hoped for. It could not have appeared earlier than it did, for the people had not been prepared for it. It certainly did not come a day too soon. The Churches needed it for their own sakes and they also needed it, in order to put forth the proper influence upon the world about them. The spirit of true scientific inquiry was beginning imperatively to demand that some worthier method of Bible study and of religious teachings, should be pursued in the Sunday School. The combination of influences which brought about the Uniform Lesson System has a distinctly definedhistory. This history has never been written, yet an acurate and authentic story of how this grand idea came to be entertained and put into practice, has been written. First it is to be noted that it did not spring into idea and operation abruptly. It had a struggle for existence. The Sunday School itself is only a recent institution. We must wait a year or two before we can celebrate its first centennial. Robert Raikes is accounted the founder of the modern Sunday School. It is impossible, to ascertain through whose mind flitted the first thought of the possibility of gathering the great masses of children into religious public schools on Sundays. It has been remarked that the Sunday School had its first birth in Robert Raikes, and its new or second birth in the inventive brain and heart of J. H. Vincent and the impetuous heart of B. F. Jacobs.

To find the very beginning of beginnings is often a very difficult thing to do, and is sometimes found impossible. The history of our Sunday School during the first sixty years of our century, can hardly be called brilliant. Yet in looking for the beginning of this most fruitful idea, we should not fail to notice the preparations for it, and the approaches toward it, made by the formation of those undenominational and national union benevolent organizations like those of the American Board of Commissioners, for Foreign Missions, The American Tract Society, The American Bible Society, The Home Missionary Society, The Sunday School Union and by no means least, The Christian Commission, during our late war. And it should be also said that the publications of The American Sunday School Union particularly its series of Union Question Books, furnished some very helpful hints. The Limited Lesson Scheme of 1875, deserves also to be mentioned in this connection. Previously the unlimited memorizing of Scripture verses was the practice, amounting to a mania, such as now appears incredible. But there then appeared advocates of limited lessons. A Scheme of Select Scripture Lessons for Sunday Schools was printed on cards, and somewhat widely circulated. In 1826, the committee of the New York, Sunday School Union reported warmly approving of the Selected Lessons, and urging their general adoption. This scheme contemplated a course of lessons running through several years, and covering a wide range of Scripture. This method was successfully tried in many schools of New York Phila., Boston and Albany. Rev. Albert Judson was then engaged to prepare a monthly series of questions, on the lessons for the use of the teachers. The next year he published a question book, known as The First Annual Course of Instruction. The American Sunday School Union earnestly indorsed the plan, and two years later it was stated that they were almost universally introduced. This scheme contemplated a five years course of study, and each course to consist of forty lessons. The whole to include the principal facts and truths of the Bible. One grand advantage claimed for it, was, instead of the utter confusion of the previous method, this plan required every class to receive instruction on the same lesson at the same time. The introduction of this method of instruction was found so superior in every respect to the old way of allowing and encouraging each child to commit as many verses as he could and each child a different lesson, and the latter was soon exploded from every well conducted Sunday School and each Sunday had the same and a limited portion of Scripture to study, understand and commit to memory. In 1865, Rev. John H. Vincent, a young Methodist preacher, conceived the idea of the Teacher's Quarterly. In 1866, this was changed to a monthly and was named The Sunday School Teacher Quite a number of schools at once adopted it. During the first year, there were published 4000 copies of the Teacher, and 20000 of the lesson paper. But before the close of the year, Mr. Vincent was convinced that he was called to labor in his own denomination. He therefore withdrew, and went East, but continued to prepare the lesson throughout the year. Rev. Edward Eggleston then became Editor. He took up the scheme where his predecessor had dropped them, and by his personal force and literary skill, he brought it into wide repute, and raised the Teacher to the front rank as the very best exponent of S. S. thought and work. Within 3 or 4 yrs. it attained a monthly circulation of 35000 copies, and the scholars lesson plan more than 350000. But one thing quite necessary to the success of the movement, was the regular recurring of the National Sunday School Convention. There had been none for ten years, and its need was greatly felt. It need not here be detailed how this convention was hailed, but it met in Newark, N. J. April, 1869, and was one of the best ever held in the country. At the semi-annual convention of the Albany Co. Sunday School held in November the committee on Union Lessons reported, that of the 34 schools connected with their convention, 28 were using Union Lessons. Of these, 13 were using the series published in the National Teacher of Chicago, and 6 were using the Berean Series. Of the schools using the Chicago Series, 4 were Presbyterian, 4 were Baptist, 3 Reformed, 1 Congregationalist and 1 Lutheran. Of those using the Berean Series, 4 were Methodist 1 Baptist, and 1 Union. Coming to feel more and more the need of Union Lessons a committee were appointed to arrange for a convention to be held in Indianapolis, in 1872 at which time the subject might be again presented and earnestly urged. Mr. Jacobs was chairman of the committee, he presented the subject and foundthe response quite general. After an earnest discussion it was decided to appoint a committee to arrange a list of lessons for 1872, it consisted of Drs. Eggleston, Vincent and Newton, and Rev H. C. McCook, and B. F Jacobs. They met immediately, and insisted that the outline of the scheme must be formed that day. Dr. Newton and Mr. Jacobs, were obliged to leave, but the rest began the work of selecting the lessons. After a brief work, they sent a card to the publishers, saying, that at that late hour they found it impossible to prepare a list of lessons that would be at all acceptable to the public, and they thought it best to defer action until the matter was thoroughly discussed before the National Convention. Mr. Jacobs returning and hearing of this, recalled the notice and called a meeting of the committee. He said "We have been appointed to do a certain work, and not to discusss whether it shall be done or not and we have no right to decline to proceed. Mr. McCook declined to take any part in it, and Dr. Newton had not returned but the remaining three made the selections for 1872. The list was taken before the Indianapolis Convention and after considerable debate was adopted. A committee was then appointed to select a seven years series of National Union Lessons. The Committee consisted of J. H. Vincent, Warren Randolph, John Hall, Richard Newton, A. L. Chapin, Geo. H. Stewart, B. F. Jacobs, P. G. Gillett, A. G. Tyng and H. P. Haven.

J. M. Gibson and A. Macallum, from Canada, were afterward added. But while this plan was seen (too) good enough to be national, it was believed that it would be made better if it were international. So while Mr. Jacobs was seeking the national idea, Dr. Vincent was in correspondence with Sunday school men of London and Edinburg, with the hope of making it international. By some of these men it was thought to be impossible, while others received it with joy, and thought it would be a grand thing to have the teachers on both sides of the Atlantic, studying and teaching the same lesson Sunday by Sunday and were willing and anxious to do all in their power to bring it about. By earnest and persistent work it was brought about and the scheme was made international, and it was not until this point in its development was reached that the Sunday school idea of our time was fully born. The arrangement of the first seven years lessons was as follows: The first year was divided between Gen. and Matthew. The second between Exodus and Mark. The third between the period [including Saul and Solomon and the] of Joshua and the Judges and John. The fourth and the first 12 chap. of Acts. The fifth between the kingdom of Israel and the missionary career of Paul. The sixth between the kingdom of Judah and Mark. The seventh was an attempt to glance at the remaining portions of scripture and gather as much as possible in the lessons of a year. At the National Convention held in Atlanta, Ga., June 28, 1878, a new committee were chosen charged with the duty of selecting the course of lessons for the ensuing seven years. The committee consisted of Rev. Vincent, Methodist, Rev. Hall, Presbyterian, B. F. Jacobs, Baptist, Rev. Randolph, Baptist, Prof. Gillett, Methodist, Rev. Newton, Episcopal, Rev. Palmer, Presbyterian, Rev. Cunnyngham, Methodist, F. Fairbanks, Congregationalist, Rev. Broadus, Baptist, Dr. Baugher, Lutheran, Rev. Warden, Presbyterian, M'Vica, Rev. Pres. and Rev. Potts, Methodist. The English committee appointed by London Sunday School Union were F. P. Hartley and W. H. Groser. The manner in which this committee have discharged their duty, and the course they have pursued, is known to us all. And it is to be hoped that the committee for the ensuing term, may be as successful in the preparation of the work, as the former ones have been, and that the sytem may ever continue to be an international one.

Rev. Alexander Henry, district president, gave a few remarks on the work of the Sunday School Convention. The State is divided into 10 districts. We are in the 3rd district, embracing the counties of Columbia, Bradford, Lycoming, Northumberland, Montour, Sullivan Tioga. The State depends upon the county organizations, the county upon the districts, and each district upon the teachers and Sunday school workers. There are six counties in the State called banner counties—they have every district organized in the county. There are seven states in the United States in which every county is organized.

A very interesting address was given by H. R. Bower, of Berwick, on the subject of "Memorizing Scripture." Every scholar, young and old, should be taught the necessity of this. It is the index board leading us to God.

In the evening session Rev. Alexander Henry discussed the topic, "Organic Structure of the Bible." Prof. D. J. Waller gave the topic, "Business Men's Relation to the Sunday School as a Moralizing Agent." He showed the necessity of business men becoming interested in Sunday school work. It made them better situated for carrying on their business or profession. It made better lawyers, better judges, better jurymen, better representatives of the people.

THURSDAY.

The session began with devotional exercises by Rev. C. K. Canfield. Following this was a discussion on Winter schools. Schools should be kept open all the year. Our public schools are kept open and why should not the Sunday school. There is no suspension in dying, hence there should be none in making the preparation. Township vice presidents were called upon to see that schools were kept open all the year.

In the absence of the delegate to the State Convention, J. H. Aikman read his report. This county is entitled to ten delegates, but there was only one present at the State convention. Three counties in the State, Mercer, Somerset and Columbia, had overpaid their apportionment to the State. The next State Convention will be held at Lewistown, Mifflin county, October 19, 20, 21, 1886.

Rev. C. K. Canfield gave a very pleasant address on the subject of "Bible Study as an Educating Force."

The commitee on time and place reported on New Columbia, the only place to which the Convention was invited. H. R. Bower extended an invitation, on his own authority, to Berwick. After some little discussion a vote was taken and by a close vote was decided to go to Berwick next year. The time for Convention to be fixed by Executive Committee. Miss Christine Welliver read an interesting paper on the subject of

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1886.

The Democratic Standing Committee will meet in the Grand Jury room on Saturday June 26th. 1886 at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of fixing an apportionment of delegates from each township according to the vote cast at the last Governor's election.

D. Lowenberg,
Chairman.

The widow of General Hancock bade farewell to her old home on Governor's Island on Saturday last, going to the house of Nicholas Gwynn, the father of her widowed daughter-in-law, Mrs. Russell Hancock, in New York, until her plans for the future can be arranged. This step was rendered necessary by the official order instructing Lieutenant Griffin, who had been ostensibly engaged in settling up the late hero's affairs, to report at Washington for service and had been delayed by the War Department until not even a sincere sympathy for Mrs. Hancock's bereavement warranted further detention of the order. Mrs. Hancock is still suffering from the nervous shock received when her husband died and is in utter ignorance of her own financial position or what she will do hereafter.

The Hon. Charles R. Buckalew is announced as a candidate for Congress in the Eleventh district, now represented by the Hon. John B. Storm. Mr. Buckalew's abilities and experience in public life would be of great value to the State in Congress. The district, which is composed of the counties of Carbon, Columbia, Monroe, Montour, Pike, and parts of Luzerne and Lackawanna, gives a Democratic majority ranging between seven and eight thousand, and deserves to be well represented. Mr. Storm expects to secure another nomination by means of the few crumbs of patronage that Mr. Randall left to him. But the Democracy of the district are determined to resent his double-dealing with them on the tariff policy of the party. When in Congress formerly he posed as an advocate of tariff reform, and on the strength of his professions he was again elected after the lapse of a number of years. At least his former zeal on behalf of a revenue tariff was in entire harmony with the sentiments of his district. But in his recent service he has become perverted into an extreme enemy of every effort in Congress to reform the tariff in accordance with the Democratic platform and the policy of Cleveland's Administration. It is not strange that the people of the district should desire a change in their Representative, especially when such a choice is offered them as Charles R. Buckalew.

The above is taken from the Philadelphia Record, and is entirely right so far as the reference to Mr. Buckalew is concerned, but wrong in other respects. The two term rule has been observed in this district ever since its erection, and we doubt very much whether Mr. Storm will ask a nomination for a third term. Should he do so, it would be against all precedents, and his prospect of success would be very unpromising. Mr. Storm's course in Congress has been entirely satisfactory to his constituents, and the Record either misunderstands or misrepresents the democracy of this district when it says they want to defeat Mr. Storm on account of his tariff record. The people of the district desire a change because Mr. Storm has held the office for two terms, and Columbia county presses the claims of Mr. Buckalew because of his eminent ability and because this county is fairly entitled to the representative.

Secretary Manning Resigns.

Secretary of the Treasury Manning has tendered his resignation to the President. His letter is dated May 20, and is as follows:

My Dear Sir: I have decided to place in your hands my resignation of the office which you did me the honor to ask me to accept fifteen months ago. My reasons for this decision are both public and personal.

Since the partial recovery of my health has permitted me to reflect upon the demands of the public service to which I have given, perhaps too freely, all my strength, and upon the conditions of resuming my labors at your side, I have not for a moment questioned what must be my present duty. The full recovery of my health is pronounced to be an affair of weeks, and a longer period of rest, especially during the hot months, is prescribed, or at least advised, as a prudent regimen thereafter.

Compliance with this request would not be practicable were I to resume now the general direction of the Treasury Department, even if abating something of the energy which it seemed needful to expend in the first year of my work. Supervision at a distance would be more a hindrance than a help to the Acting Secretary. But it is not befitting that a department of the government so difficult and so important should be administered by a coavalescent, studions of carrying out its daily exactions, nor that the watchful control of the enormous influence or direction of its fiscal policies, even under your wise lead, should be attempted by any one concerned about husbanding his strength.

The retorms in your fiscal policy which you have maintained and which have been framed and commended to the wisdom of the legislative branch, are reforms necessary to our safety, binding in honor, obligatory in the traditions of the Democracy, set down with promises in our statue book.

Our present tariff laws are a needless oppression instead of an easy burden. Our currency is a chaos into which we pour from forced purchases of one of the previous metals, a mechanical increment under a coinage law so ill-judged and untimely that it hinders the opening of our mints to the natural and unlimited coinage of both metals and the free expansion of our gold and silver coin along with the growing needs of a mighty people.

All our needful customs revenue might be collected by strictly revenue duties upon a few score articles instead of by extravagant or prohibitory duties upon more than four thousand articles. The mere machinery of administration by its own mass and complexity breaks down and crushes out the enterprise it assumes to protect.

A better currency than elsewhere exists might be had by a few lines of repealing and empowering legislation followed by two or three years of capable administration of the Treasury and joined with the present sagacious conduct of our foreign policy by the State Department.

Under the operation of currency laws and tariff laws now in force, which you and the Forty-ninth Congress were elected by the people to repeal and reform, the burdened industries of our country are plunging heavily along a miry road toward foreseen danger. We talk of arbitrating our respective share of disaster, instead of knocking off our self-imposed fetters and releasing a general prosperity.

This is not, in my deliberate judgment, a time when the President can delay to provide, or afford to dispense with, an actual as well as a titular head of the Treasury Department.

The fiscal policy of the Federal Government in respect to a debt so large, taxation so pervasive and a currency which is universal, cannot fail of being a chief factor in national and individual well being. Your own duty to which you have addressed yourself with such clear and unflinching purpose, the duty of Congress in the premises and the laws which may yet be enacted for the guidance of the Treasury Department, will require that you be assisted in their administration by an officer capable of full efficiency and unwearied circumspection.

Permit me, therefore, without hesitation, to accept my temporary disability as a summons to stand aside and make way for one immediately capable of fulfilling every requirement of the public service. Very respectfully yours, Daniel Manning.

The President's Reply.

To this letter the President, under date of June 1, replied as follows:

My Dear Mr. Manning: I have received your letter, in which your resignation is tendered as Secretary of the Treasury. The sentiments therein contained are entirely in keeping with the devotion to public duty and the loyalty to the interests of the government which have characterized your relations to the present administration. I am not surprised, though much impressed, by the concern which you evince for the correction of the abuses and the inauguration of the reforms to which in your letter you allude and which have been so often topics of our anxious consultations.

I have hoped that the day was at hand when the party to which we belong, influenced largely by faith and confidence in you and in the wisdom of your views, would be quickened in the sense of responsibility and led to more harmonious action upon the important questions with which you have had to deal.

In considering your proposed resignation I should be strongly inclined by my personal regard and friendship and by the value of your services to the country, to beg you to at once and entirely abandon your inclination to relinquish your part of arduous duty, but I am convinced that I should not do this, and that in all I suggest and ask I should have much at heart your welfare and safety.

You have placed your resignation in my hands. My responsibility here begins and I know that the responsibility will be met and the wishes of the people of the land fully answered when I ask you to postpone for awhile any instance upon the acceptance of your resignation and that your final conclusion thereon may be delayed until the effects of continued rest and freedom from official care upon your condition may be better tested. I therefore earnestly request you to accept a leave of absence until the first day of October next, when if you desire it, the question of your resignation may be resumed with, perhaps, better means of judging all the facts and probabilities which should be considered in its determination.

Hoping that you will consent to this suggestion, and trusting that your encouraging progress toward restoration to health may continue, I am, faithfully your friend,

Grover Cleveland.

Secretary Manning has accepted the President's suggestion and will allow his resignation to lie over until his leave of absence shall have expired. Assistant Secretary Fairchild has been requested to continue to act as Secretary until that time and has consented to do so.

Another Useless Law.

The attention of merchants and tradesmen is being called to the fact that the law of June 3, 1885, styled "an act for the suppression of lottery gifts by storekeepers and others to secure patronage," is about to go into effect. As its terms made it operative only one year after its date it went in to effect after Thursday, June 3, 1886. Its provisions are as follows:

Any merchant, manufacturer, importer, retailer or dealer doing business within this commonwealth, who shall offer, give or sell, or authorize or permit any agent, salesman or employe to offier, give or sell any purchaser or customer, any ticket or tickets, check or checks, or other token or memoranda entitling such purchaser to demand or receive money or any article of value, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not less than ten, nor exceeding one hundred dollars, or suffer imprisonment not exceeding one year, or either or both, at the discretion of the court.

It will readily be seen that there is no relation between the act and its title; its preamble "whereas, the laws against gambling and lotteries are evaded by the giving of tickets, entitling the holders thereof to money or articles of value as inducements to purchasers at the injury of legitimate business," is misleading and misfitting. Tickets or checks for chances are one thing; premiums or gifts to purchasers are quite another. There is no warrant for the confusion of these distinct things; and the law-making powers had no right to put the brand of lottery or gambling upon that species of trading which gives a gift, or check or memorandum representing gifts (not chances) with purchases. Time out of mind publishers have offered premiums to subscribers and clubs; and all kinds of tradesmen are wont to give something "in the bargain." This is no more legitimate than for soap or tobacco sellers, for the tea and coffee stores to give chromos and glassware or tickets representing them with their sales. It may not be a dignified business, but it is entirely honest and fair, and the legislature which makes it a misdemeanor is mean, vicious legislation, utterly unsound in principle and indefensible. The men who passed it ought to be ridiculed and held up to scorn. They must be ignoramuses, to say the best of them.—Lancaster Intelligencer.

The Confederate Bond Ghost.

When there is an absolute famine in sensations which come within even long range of probability, the ghost of the old Confederate bonds is bobbed up to call in sepulchral tones for their payment by the United States. Sometimes this ghost appears in London; sometimes in Paris, sometimes in Berlin, but it has seldom given us a seance in this country.

Judge Fullerton, a prominent Republican lawyer and politician of New York, has just attempted a revival of the Confederate bond ghost before Congress. He appeared before the Committee on War Claims and demanded a hearing. It was only courteous to hear so eminent an advocate, and he was heard. "I am a Republican," he began, "but I say to you, gentlemen, that I believe the time will come when the Confederate bonds will all be paid." Just when that particular "time will come," the eloquent Republican advocate did not venture to intimate; but he could have safely fixed the period of payment some time after doomsday.

Judge Fullerton has obviously wearied of dull monotony of the regulation routine practice of the law. If he had a Theodore Tilton case to entertain him once a year, he might be content; but he has had only one Tilton-Beecher case, and he has long been hungering for novelty in the line of his profession. All other sources failing he accepted a good retainer from some deluded English and American Confederate bond-holders, and he prepared and presented his argument before the Committee of Congress. He has thus drawn one small instalment on the Confederate bonds himself, and he is now prepared to exhibit the Confederate bond ghost to order at short est notice with attractive variations in the programme.

Nobody who is safe outside of a lunatic asylum, except a paid lawyer, has ever seriously thought of the payment of the Confederate bonds by anybody or government, either in whole or in part; and even so eloquent and shrewd an advocate as Judge Fullerton can't galvanize the Confederate bond ghost into the semblance of life. While there are fools to pay, he and others will doubtless affect the belief that somebody may sometime or other think of paying the bonds; but none but the most picturesque idiot will ever really believe in it.—Times.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." Charles A. Roberts, East Wilson, N. Y.

LIVER COMPLAINT

SYMPTOMS: Bad breath; a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; pain in the back, sides or joints, often mistaken for rheumatism; sour stomach; loss of appetite; bowels alternately costive and lax; headache; loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; debility; low spirits; a thick, yellow appearance of the skin and eyes; a dry cough, often mistaken for consumption.

How Cured.

"I have been afflicted many years with dyspepsia, sick headache and affection of the kidneys caused by torpid liver. I have tried a great many remedies and physicians prescriptions without success, health failing all the time. During last Fall and Winter I was obliged to suspend the most of my labor in my field of Home Missionary work on account of my health. Early this spring I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator, and have had more real good health since then than for years before. I use the medicine to relive me when, by exposure or over-exertion, I discover the symptoms of my disease returning. The Regulator relieves me at once, and is more satisfactory in its effects than anything of the kind I ever tried. I have also used it with good success in my family to ward off bilious attacks."—Jos. E. Wheeler, Cumberland Pres. Minister, Lebanon, Mo.

Quite a number of our farmers planted their corn last week. This is a month later than should have been planted. The great rainfall of May kept the ground in such condition that nothing could be planted. It is to be hoped that our Fall will be late so that the corn may have time to ripen.

D. W. Kitchen lost a very valuable horse on Thursday of last week. The horse was taken ill Wednesday morning with inflamation of the bowels and showed that he was in great distress. Everything possible was done to relieve him of his sufferings, but he gradually grew worse, and died the following morning at 2 o'clock. The horse was 8 years old, Hambletonian, registered, and had a record when three years old of 2:50. The loss is a heavy one for Mr. Kitchen. Aside from the value of the horse, which was placed at $1,000, he was of such gentle disposition that any one could drive him with safety.

A gang of burglars broke in the Grange Store Tuesday evening. They tried to gain an entrance at the back door, and after cutting partly through found the door lined with sheet iron. They next went to the front door, and tried prying the door open with some blunt tool; in doing so, they sprang the door in such a manner as to break the glass in one side and crack it in the other. This gave them a way of entrance. It is difficult to know how much was stolen. A number of articles of jewelry and some shoes are missing. The jewelry is all of the initial style. There were three money drawers in the building. Two of these were broken open but there was no money in them except a twenty-five cent piece which was covered by a few papers, and the burglars overlooked it. The same evening burglars were in the cellar of J. K. Lockard, and also at Wm. Gigger's hotel.

Dr. Ewell's Romance.

In the early part of the late war, among a number of young men who left Baltimore to go South was the son of a minister. He stopped for a time in Richmond, Va., and while there formed the acquaintance of a young lady, to whom he became engaged. He was very soon ordered by military authority to Georgia, and a rumor reached him to the effect that the young lady on whom he had bestowed his affections had proved false and learned to love another, whereupon the young Marylander sought and obtained the heart and hand of a young lady of his adopted state. After a happy union of eight years, during which time three children were born, the wife and mother died. Two years subsequent he sought and found congenial companionship in the person of another one of Georgia's fair daughters. The second wife lived ten years, during which time three more children were born, when she died. Then, to ascertain the fate of his former fiance, he wrote to Richmond and was informed that the rumors as to the Virginia girl's falsity was unfounded, and that she was still living in single blessedness at her comfortable home in Richmond.

The Georgian, not the worse for wear, then turned his attention in that direction and after a short correspondence, a proposition for a renewal of the former engagement was made and accepted, and on the twelfth inst. was married.

Silas McHenry.

After an illness of several months' duration, Silas McHenry, of Stillwater, succumbed to the inevitable, and breathed his last on Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock. He was one of a family of six boys and three girls, and the names of all the brothers are among the best in Columbia county. They are Elias, James, John J., Cyrus B., Daniel and Silas. The sisters are Mrs. Samuel Appleman, Mrs. Hiram McHenry and Ellen, whose husband's name we have not learned. Silas was a thrifty farmer, and an honest, earnest, God-fearing man. He bore his illness manfully and died peacefully. His age was about 50 years and he leaves a wife and two children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. The funeral took place on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and was largely attended.

A Trip Up the Creek.

On Friday morning last a stylish four-in-hand hitched to a barouche drove up in front of the Exchange Hotel at 11 o'clock. It came from Buckalew Bros. livery, and Russell held the reins. At 11:20 it was boarded by a party consisting of Hon. C. R. Buckalew, Col. B. K. Jamison, of Philadelphia, Mr. John Ryon, of Williamsport, Geo. E. Elwell, Esq., and Col. John Jameson, the latter being the originator of the expedition, at whose invitation the trip was made. Benton was reached at 2:10 and an elegant dinner was partaken of at Hess' hotel. At 5 o'clock Wm. Cole's place, the end of the journey, came in sight and the party disembarked, after a ride of 28 miles through a beautiful country, and on a June day as perfect as could be imagined. William Cole lives in a comfortable farm house about two miles above Central, in Sullivan county. When you get there you stop; it is the end of the road. Here nestled in among the mountains that tower hundreds of feet on every side, the fisherman or hunter finds a very pleasant stopping place. During the warm season Cole's is always crowded.

But this party was not out on a fishing excursion, though they were abundantly supplied with delicious trout caught by somebody else. The timber on the mountains, and the valleys through which the proposed Fishingcreek railroad is to be run were the points of observation, and the special objects of interest. That there is an abundance of timber, and that the proposed route is an eligible one, is beyond dispute. The only obstacle in the way is the lack of funds, and the trip was made with the hope of interesting capitalists in the project. How far it succeeded remains to be seen.

The return trip was made on Saturday. All through it was a most enjoyable one, and those who participated feel under many obligations to Col. John Jameson for the royal manner in which he entertained his guests.

What We Are Indebted to the South For.

There appears in our columns to-day the advertisement of the well-known (and universally used in the Southern States) Simmons Liver Regulator. Years ago it won its way into every household of the South by pure, sterling merit. It there takes the place of a doctor and costly prescriptions. The medicine is becoming widely known in the North, and wherever used the demand for it has steadily increased. It is a family medicine, containing no dangerous and deleterious qualities, but purely vegetable, and so gentle in its action that it can be safely given to any person, no matter what age—the centenarian or the crowing youngster. Working people are often in that miserable state of health, which really renders them unfit for labor; but they havn't time to take medicine and be sick. Simmons Liver Regulator can be taken without causing any loss of time, and the system will be built up and invigorated by it. The Regulator promotes digestion, dissipates nasty sick headache, and gives a strong, full tone to the system. In malarious climates it is invaluable, both protecting attack from the disease and expelling the poison after it has entered the system. It has no equal as a preparatory medicine, and can be safely used when a doctor cannot be called in. Persons of the very highest character and eminence have given Simmons Liver Regulator their cordial and hearty endorsement.

Railroad Discrimination.

A. L. Fritz, at the last session of the Legislature, voted for the Anti-Discrimination bill. It had for its object the enforcement of the constitution in reference to charges made by railroad companies in the transportation of freight or passengers within the State, or coming from or going to any other state. Some time ago the Farmers' Friend or Grange Advocate published a resolution endorsing the actions of Mr. Fritz and others for supporting the bill. It did not pass but a similar bill will be up before the next Legislature, which will be one of the leading issues of the next session. The question is, shall the railroad companies control the people or shall the people control the railroad companies.

The seeds of disease may be lurking in your system. Nature gives warning. Do not fail to heed it. Correct your blood and place your system in good condition by using Keller's Catarrh Remedy.

Tax Appeals.

Appeals from the assessment have been taken by the following: Phila. & Read. Coal & Iron Co., Briston Coal & Improvement Co., Locust Gap Improvement Co., Locust Mountain Coal & Iron Co., Girard estate, Low Bros. & Co., E. H. Little, Coal Ridge Improvement Co., New York & Middle Coal Field & R. R. Co.

Testimony was taken in Low Bros. appeal on Monday before S. N. Walker, commissioner. In this case the assessment had been raised from $6000 to $35,000, by the commissioners.

THREE EFFECTS.—The thousands of remarkable cures which have been accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla are due simply to three effects which this great medicine has upon those who take it:

First: It purifies the blood.

Second: It strengthens the system.

Third: It gives healthy action to the digestive organs.

With these three effects no disease can long retain its hold. It is forced to leave the system, giving place to health and strength, through the potent influence of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. Try it.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AND MISS FOLSOM MAN AND WIFE.

The Happy Couple United in Marriage in the Blue Room of the White House.

Miss Folsom arrived safely in Washington shortly after 5.30 o'clock in the morning, June 2d, and was met by Colonel Lamont. The train was composed of four cars and President Robert's private car, the latter being occupied by Miss Folsom and her party. She was dressed in black, and wore a wrap of the same color to protect her from the morning air; a stylish hat trimmed with white and blue ribbons, and black kid gloves. She was escorted by Colonel Lamont to the carriage and driven direct to the White House, with Mrs. Folsom, who was dressed in black and looked a little tired, and Mrs. Rogers of Syracuse.

About 6.30 in the evening the wedding guests began to arrive, their carriages rolled up to the main door of the mansion through the great iron gates on Pennsylvania avenue. The first arrival was Secretary Lamar. He was closely followed by Rev. Dr. Sunderland and wife, and during the next few minutes there came in quick succession Postmaster General Vilas and wife, Wilson P. Bissell, Secretary and Mrs. Endicott, Secretary Bayard, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney and Secretary Manning and his wife. Removing their wraps in the state dining-room all the guests proceeded to the Blue Room, where they were received by Miss Rose Cleveland.

The following is a complete list of those present: Mrs. Folsom, mother of the bride; Rev. W. N. Cleveland, the President's brother; Miss Cleveland, and Mrs. Hoyt, the President's sisters; Thomas F. Bayard, Secretary of State; Miss Bayard; Daniel Manning, Secretary of Treasury; Mrs. Manning; William C. Endicott, Secretary of War; Mrs. Endicott; William C. Whitney, Secretary of Navy; Mrs. Whitney; William F. Vilas, Postmaster General; Mrs. Vilas; L. Q. C. Lamar, Secretary of the Interior; Daniel Lamont, Private Secretary to the President; Mrs. Lamar; Benjamin Folsom, Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers, Seneca Falls; Miss Cadman and Miss Huddleston, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Harmer, Boston, relatives of the bride; Miss Nelson, New York; A. S. Bissell, Buffalo, the President's former law partner; Dr. and Mrs. Byron Sanderland. Attorney-General Garland, although invited, was not present.

For a few minutes the guests chatted gaily, but the conversation was quickly suspended at 7.15 o'clock, when the selected orchestra from the Marine Band, stationed in the corridor, struck up the familiar strains of the wedding march from Mendelssohns, "Midsummer Night's Dream," and all eyes were turned to the door-way to catch the first glimpse of the coming bride and groom. Starting from the western corridor of the upper floor the President came slowly down the staircase with his bride leaning on his arm They were unaccompanied, even the bride's mother awaiting her with the other guests. Passing through the central corridor the bride and groom entered the Blue Room and took a position near its southern wall, which was completely hidden from sight by a mass of nodding palms, tropical grasses and an endless variety of choice flowers. The crystal chandelier poured a flood of mellow radiance upon the scene and colors of mossive banks. Scarlet begonias and royal Jacquminot roses mingling the blue and silver lines of the frescoed walls and ceiling gave a warm and glowing tone to the whole brilliant interior. The delicate ivory shades of the bride's wedding gown found an exquisite setting in the masses of crimson roses immediately beyond. The President was in full evening dress, with turn down collar, white lawn neck-tie, and white emanuel studs.

A hush fell upon the assemblage as Doctor Sunderland stepped forward to his position fronting the wedding couple with the Rev. William Cleveland (the President' brother) at his left hand. In distinct tone of voice and with a deliberate utterance the doctor began the simple and beautiful wedding service, as follows:

For as much as we are assembled to observe the holy rite of marriage, it is needful that we should seek the blessing of the great God, our father, whose institution it is, and therefore I beseech you now to follow me with reverent hearts in prayer to Him. Almighty and everlasting God, the father of our spirits, the framer of our bodies, the giver of every good and perfect gift, Thou who can-st see the end from the beginning, who knowest what is best for us, Thy children, and hast appointed the holy rite of marriage to be sacr-dly observed throughout all generations, regard now, I beseech Thee, Thy servant, our Chief Magistrate; endow him plenteously with Thy grace and fill him with wisdom to walk in Thy ordinances. Be ever nigh to him in the midst of many cares and grave responsibilities. Day by day may Thy law direct him and Thy strength uphold him, and be Thou forever his sun and shield. And be graciously pleased to look down upon this Thy daughter even as Thou didst favor the chosen Rebecca, and many noble women that have adorned the world. May she indeed be a precious boon of God to her husband, to cheer help him continually; a woman gifted with the beauty of the land and shedding the sweet influence of a Christian life upon the Nation in whose sight she is to dwell. Wilt Thou approve what we, Thy servants, come to do in Thy name by Thine authority and under the laws of the land in which we live, and graciously assist them, this man and this woman, who are here to be united in the bonds of holy wedlock according to the institution of Thy words? Mercifully be pleased, Almighty God, to vouchsafe to each of them Thy grace, that they may well and truly weigh the unfailing vows which they are now about to make to each other in the presence of this company and before Thee, and that they may be enabled hereafter at all times so to live together as to rejoice in the solemnization of this union with joy unspeakable and full of glory, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Addressing the company he said:

Marriage is honorable among all men in that a man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleve unto his wife, and the twain shall be one flesh, it was constituted by our Creator in the first paradise. It was confessed by patriarch and priest, prophet and apostle. It was confirmed by the teaching and alarmed with the presence of the redeemer, and has been proved by the faithful keeping of all good men and women since the world began. It is not, therefore, to be undertaken lightly or unadvisedly, but soberly, discreetly and in the fear of God. Into this holy estate this man and this woman come now to enter. If any now can show just cause why they may not be lawfully united in marriage, let him speak, or else hereafter forever hold his peace.

To the bride and groom:

"If you desire to be united in marriage, you will signify the same by joining your right hands." (The groom and bride joined hands).

"Grover," said the minister, "Do you take this woman whom you hold by the hand to be your lawful wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of wedlock? Do you promise to love her, cherish, comfort and keep her in sickness and in health, in joy and in sorrow, and forsaking all others keep you only unto her so long as you both shall live?"

The groom (firmly), "I do."

Dr. Sunderland—"Frances, do you take this man whom you hold by the hand to be your lawful wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of wedlock? Do you promise to love him, honor, comfort, and keep him in sickness and in health, in joy and in sorrow, and forsaking all others keep you only unto him so long as you both shall live?"

The bride responded in a low but clear voice, "I do."

Dr. Sunderland (solemnly)—"For as much as Grover and Frances have here agreed and covenanted to live together after God's ordinance, in the holy state of wedlock, and have confirmed the same by giving and taking a wedding ring, now therefore, in the presence of this company, in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, I pronounce and declare that they are husband and wife, and what God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

The Rev. Mr. Cleveland then pronounced the following benediction: "God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost, bless, preserve and keep you. The Lord mercifully fill you with all temporal and all spiritual blessings, and grant that you may so live together in this world that in the world to come you may have life everlasting. Amen."

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mrs. Folsom, showing traces of deep emotion was the first to tender her congratulations to the newly married pair. She was followed by Miss. Cleveland, the Rev. Mr. Cleveland and the other relatives and friends in turn. While the congratulations were in progress, the band under the leadership of Professor Sousa, performed the bridal chorus and march from Lohenrin, and to this music the President and his wife led the way into the stately East Room. The adornments of this noble hall were in keeping with its majestic proportions, and its ample space and brilliant illumination afforded an opportunity for a fitting display of the ladies' toilettes. From the east room the company proceeded, after a season of promenading and conversation, to the family dining-room of the Mansion, where the wedding supper was served.

The decorations of the Executive Mansion were of an elaborate character, and, in the language of one of the oldest employes, "It never presented a handsomer appearance." The various public gardens in the city and many private conservatories here and in other cities contributed their choicest plants and flowers to lend their beauty and fragrance to the scene. Of course the Blue Room, where the ceremony was performed, occupied the principal attention of the decorators. It was transformed into a veritable bower of beauty.

The decorations of the private dining-room where the wedding collation was served were also of an elaborate character. The main table decoration was a full rigged three-masted ship, composed of pinks, centaurea, egana, roses and pansies, displaying the word "Hymen." It rested on a mirror representing a lake, the shores of which were composed of different varieties of selaginellas and tiny pieces of coral. The surrounding land was represented by banks of Jacqueminot roses. The National colors hung from the main mast and two small white flags with the monogram "C. F" in golden letters hung from the other masts. At either end of the table resting on mirrors were handsome vases containing long stemmed hybred roses. The east room and the red and green parlors were decorated in the style usual at the receptions and state dinners. To the usual decorations of the main corridor were added four astra groupes of palms and foliage and flowering plants.

The Blue Parlor, in which the wedding ceremony occurred, was decorated by Tiffany, of New York, and reopened in the winter of 1882-83. A robin's-egg blue is used for walls, furniture coverings and window hangings; but it looks green by gas-light, which is the light always used on State occasions. The ceiling is silvered over in a beautiful design. Silver and crystal brackets on the walls have gas burners, which, as well as those in the handsome centre chandelier of crystal, are always lighted at ceremonials. Although the East Room was used for Nellie Grant's wedding, the Blue Parlor is the room in which the most formal and ceremonious social events usually happen at the White House. There the New Year reception of the diplomatic corps and all the other receptions held by a President or the lady of the White House occur, and there on presentation of their letters accrediting them as envoys to this country the foreign Ministers of Charges d'Affaires are first introduced by the Secretary of State to the President. The wedding of John Quincy Adams' son in 1826, while his father was President, and R. B. Hayes' niece, Miss Platt, occurred in this room.

The Green Parlor, next to it, is said to have been the scene of the proposal of marriage of General Hastings to Miss Platt and of her acceptance of him, and the late Mrs. James Brooks, of Newport often told that it was in that room that Mr. Brooks courted her. She was then the widow Randolph, of Virginia, and had come to the White House to visit her uncle, President Harrison, during the one month he survived his inauguration. The engagement of President Cleveland to Miss Folsom was finally concluded in this same apartment during the visit of the lady to her friend, Miss Cleveland. With the splendid record which the Green Parlor now has it will become the future trysting place for all the timid lovers in this country.

The blue bedroom which the President has occupied whenever in the Executive Mansion since his inauguration is the same from which the last two brides whose weddings occurred in the White House descended to be married in the parlors below. It was Nellie Grant's bedchamber during the month preceding her wedding, and it was the bedchamber occupied by Miss Platt, R. B. Hayes' niece, during the time she spent in the White House before her wedding in the Blue Parlor, June 16, 1878.

The furniture is all of pale blue satin, and includes a lounge, also covered with that delicate color of satin. The white marble mantel is covered with a hand embroidered blue lambrequin. The hangings at the two large windows are of blue satin. The bed in the apartment has its head to the west; above is a canopy, over blue satin. An eider down quilt, one side of which is blue and the other pink silk (the blue side worked with Kate Greenaway figures in colors), is thrown across the foot of the bed. There are three doors in the large, square room, which is on the north side of the building. One door opens into a bath room, and opposite is one opening into the corner room, which adjoins the bed-room. This corner room, is about half the size of the other, and was fitted up at the same time the large one was for President Arthur, and used by him and his successor as a private study. The married Presidents never used the bed-room Arthur and Cleveland chose to occupy.

An Opium Eater's Story.

CRAWLING OVER RED HOT BARS OF IRON IN HIS FEARFUL FRENZY—A SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION AND ITS RESULTS.

Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Opium or death!"

This brief sentence was fairly hissed into the ear of a prominent druggist on Vine street by a person who, a few years ago well off is to-day a hopeless wreck.

One can scarcely realize the sufferings of an opium victim. De Quincy has vividly portrayed it. But who can fitly describe the joy of the rescued victim?

H. C. Wilson, of Loveland, O., formerly with March Harwood & Co., manufacturing chemists of St. Louis, and of the well-known firm of H. C. Wilson & Co, chemists, formerly of this city, gave our reporter yesterday a bit of thrilling personal experience in this line.

"I have crawled over red hot bars of iron and coals of fire," he said, "in my agony during an opium frenzy. The very thought of my sufferings freezes my blood and chills my bones. I was then eating over 30 grains of opium daily."

"How did you contract the habit?"

"Excessive business cares broke me down and my doctor prescribed opium! That is the way nine-tenths of cases commence. When I determined to stop however, I found I could not do it.

"You may be surprised to know," he said, "that two-fifths of the slaves of morphine and opium are physicians. Many of these I met. We studied our cases carefully. We found out what the organs were in which the appetite was developed and sustained; that no victim was free from a demoralized condition of those organs; that the hope of a cure depended entirely upon the degree of vigor which could be imparted to them. I have seen patients while undergoing treatment, compelled to resort to opium again to deaden the horrible pain in those organs. I marvel how I ever escaped."

"Do you mean to say, Mr. Wilson, that you have conquered the habit?"

"Indeed I have."

"Do you object to telling me how?"

"No, sir. Studying the matter with several opium-eating physicians, we became satisfied that the appetite for opium was located in the kidneys and liver. Our next object was to find a specific for restoring those organs to health. The physicians, much against their code addressed their attention to a certain remedy and became thoroughly convinced on its scientific merits alone alone it was the only one that could be relied upon in every case of disordered kidneys and liver. I thereupon began using it and, supplementing it with my own special treatment, finally got full over the habit. I may say that the most important part of the treatment is to get those organs first into good working condition, for in them the appetite originates and is sustained, and in them over ninety per cent of all other human ailments originate."

"For the last seven years this position has been taken by the proprietors of that remedy and finally it is becoming an acknowledged scientific truth among the medical profession; many of them however, do not openly acknowledge it, and yet, knowing they have no other scientific specific, their code not allowing them to use it, they buy it upon the quiet and prescribe it in their own bottles."

"As I said before, the opium and morphine habits can never be cured until the appetite for them is routed out of the kidneys and liver. I have tried everything,—experimented with everything and as the result of my studies and investigation, I can say I know nothing can accomplish this result but Warner's safe cure."

"Have others tried your treatment?"

"Yes sir, many; and all who have followed it fully have recovered. Several of them who did not first treat their kidneys and liver for six or eight weeks, as I advised them, completely failed. This form of treatment is always insisted upon for all patients, whether treated by mail or at the Loveland Opium Institute, and supplemented by our special private treatment, it always cures."

Mr. Wilson stands very high wherever known. His experience is only another proof of the wonderful and conceded power of Warner's safe cure over all diseases of the kidneys, liver and blood, and the diseases caused by derangements of those organs. We may say that it is very flattering to the proprietors of Warner' safe cure that it has received the highest medical endorsement and, after pertistent study, it is admitted by scientists that there is nothing in materia medica for the restoration of those great organs that equals it in power. We take pleasure in publishing the above statemants coming from so relinble a source as Mr. Wilson and confirming by personal experience what we have time and again published in our columns. We also extend to the proprietors our hearty congratulations on the results wrought.

Farm Work for June.

This is the busiest of months for the farmer. Corn planting, which is "planting" par excellence, over a large part of the country is not over before corn tillage presses, for the weeds grow very fast, and the grass grows, too, so that haying ought to begin. Millet and fodder corn must be sowed and in many sections Swedish turnips or rutabagas need to be in as early as the 25th, though in others good crops may be depended upon when sowed a month later. Those who have orchard grass and clover in some fields will be glad that they may begin the hay harvest by cutting these long before timothy and red-top meadows are ready for the mowing machine. This saves a great deal of worry, and when the timothy is ripe it may be cut at once if proper calculations have been made. As to the age when timothy should be cut, it is well to bear in mind that for one's own use it can hardly be cut too green after the heads are well out, but for sale for city feeding it is preferred as old as it can be without the seed shelling off from the heads. It is used not so much as nutriment as for bulky food with oats or ground feed.—American Agriculturist for June.

There are scores of persons who are suffering from some form of blood disorder or skin disease, such as Scrofula, Boils, etc., etc. After a practical test, J. H. Mercer asserts that Acker's Blood Elixir will certainly cure all such diseases, including Syphillis and Rheumatism. Itis not a patent nostrum, but a scientific preparation, he guarantees it.

After a thorough test J. H. Mercer most positively asserts that Acker's English Remedy is the best medicine for asthma, croup, coughs, whooping cough and all lung troubles that can be found. Ask him about it, for he fully guarantees it.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

When I was a young fellow I lived on father's farm, down there in Connecticut. You've seen the place. The church was near the tavern, and behind the church was the parsonage; and there lived Dominie Wheeler and his daughter Dolly. On Saturdays, after I had my supper, I used to dress myself, and tell my mother that I meant to call on Dominie Wheeler's folks. Mother generally answered that I couldn't do better; that the dominie's conversation was sure to be improving, and that Dolly was not "hity-tity, like some gals she could mention."

Father would add: "and a pretty little critter, too." And armed with parental approval, I would go to the parsonage.

It was a good time to go, for the sermon had to be finished, as a general thing, on that evening, and Dolly and I had delightful long talks in those solitary moments, and one evening I proposed to Dolly, and she accepted me The dominie gave us his blessing, father and mother said they could not have chosen a daughter-in-law to suit them better, and all they asked was that we should wait a little while.

"My daughter is not seventeen years old yet," said the dominie. "You must not be in a hurry to take her from me."

"Wait two years, and you will be three-and-twenty, and I'll give you the river farm and build you a house," said father.

Our course of true love seemed to be running very smooth, indeed, and I would have staked my life and soul, a pretty heavy stake, on my constancy. But, somehow, I think Satan thought we were too happy, and laid a trap for me.

Doctor Robin's widow, a managing woman with a big house, was in the habit of taking summer boarders, and every year a lot of city strangers wandered about the place from June to September.

When Dolly and I had been engaged about a year and a half, the widow had 30 boarders in her house, and Ike and Edwin, and all the male help slept in the barn.

There was one young lady there, a Miss Sally Grey, so pretty that every one who saw her was talking about it. And I was introduced to her. Some women have a way of making a man act against his better judgment. She was one of them. I did not mean to flirt with her, but I did. I did not mean to meet her in shady lanes, and in the quiet wood paths, but we met. She knew (I suppose Ike Robins had told her) about my engagement, and she teased me about being afraid of my sweetheart.

"Such a good, prim little thing," she would say. "Is she dreadfully shocked at me? Does she think I am a flirt? Does she pray for me in meeting?

I felt angry, but yet I was piqued into proving myself free to do as I liked. At a little evening party, to which we were asked, I danced five dances with her, and when at last, my conscience smote me, and I went to look for Dolly, I found she had gone home.

"She said her pa wanted her," said Mrs. Robins; "but I tell you plainly, James Gardener, I don't believe it; and for my part, I don't see what people can find to admire in that impudent New York girl. If my Tilly behaved like her, I'd shut her up on bread and water until she reformed.

I hurried away but the parsonage was shut up when I got there, and I spent an hour walking up and down before the house, staring at the dark windows.

The time seemed very long until the next evening, and I went over to the parsonage very early, but Dolly was not there.

"She's gone to spend the evening somewhere," said the dominie, kindly. "I suppose she forgot to leave word for you to come for her. She isn't very well, either; a cold, I suppose. I know I generally caught cold at a party when I was young and attended such entertainments. I hope she'll be careful. Her poor mother died of consumption."

My heart gave a great leap.

I thought of Dolly ill, dying, even dead, and I went out into the kitchen to ask the servant it Dolly left any message for me.

"She said she wouldn't be home to-night," answered Nora; "at least, this evening, I mean, and she did not leave word where she was going."

Nora understood, I saw. I felt terribly injured and I made up my mind to revenge myself by spending the evening with Sally Gray.

She was at home, the servant girl said, and I found her waiting in the parlor for me. We had it ourselves. Mrs. Robins never came in, nor any of the other borders; indeed, it was now growing late in the seasons, and they were almost all gone away. If I never knew how to flirt before, Sally Gray taught me how that night, and when I took leave of her I was imprudent enough to tell her I should like to kiss her.

"Do it, if you desire," said she.

And then! Yes, I kissed her; and as I did it the door opened, and we started apart, and there stood Dolly. She had seen it all.

"I left my bonnet her," she said. "Mr. Isaac is going home with me, and I came to get it. Sorry to disturb you."

She was very cool and contemptuous. She tied her bonnet on at the glass; threw her little mantle over her shoulders; and went out. Next day she broke our engagement and sent me back my ring.

The next week I left home and went away to sea. Some one had told me that Dolly was going to marry Ike Robins.

Mother wrote to me often; and never mentioned Dolly and I never asked about her. I lived with men, generally on the sea, and had no thought of liking or caring for any woman. I always intended to go home and see the old folks, but they died of a fever within two days of each other, and a stranger sent me the news.

Lawyer Dredgers saw to the estate, and did what I asked him to do with the money. I did not need it then, but it would keep me from being a beggar in my old age. And still I sailed the sea, until 40 years old an accident happened to me which came near being my death. It did not kill me or cripple me, but I was no longer fit for a sailor's life, and there was nothing left for me but to settle down on land and live on my money, and so I went home at last to talk to Lawyer Dredgers, and get his advice.

I felt very sad as I walked through the village. My parents were dead, no one remembered me; I had not a friend in the place.

The lawyer had done his best to make my money profitable to me, and I was richer than I dreamed. When

J. H. Mercer would especially recommend to the ladies Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. As a laxative they have no equal. They are guaranteed to cure Chronic Constipation, Dyspepsia, and all diseases arising from a deranged stomach. With a free use of the Tablets, Sick Headache is impossible.

J. H. Mercer wishes to make an assertion, which he can back with a positive guarantee. It is all about Acker's Blood Elixir. He claims for it superior merits over all other remedies of its kind, and guarantees for it a positive and sure cure for Rheumatism, Syphillis, and all blood disorders, it frees the skin from spots and disease, and leaves the complexion clear Ask him about it.
